“Girls Learn About Golf”

Royal Palm Beach, FL (USA), August 3, 2008 – LPGA-USGA Girls Golf of Riviera Beach/Royal Palm Beach, FL (USA) kicked off its “LPGA-USGA Girls Golf Day 2008” on August 2, 2008 at The Links at Madison Green, 2001 Crestwood Blvd North, Royal Palm Beach, FL. Its inaugural event was devoted to making golf accessible to girls and nurturing their interest in the game. It gave 14 girls (ages 7-17) and their mothers a chance to be exposed for 3 hours to the game of golf in a great environment, meet new friends and experience some competitive fun (chipping, putting, full swing).

“We hoped to start elevating girls’ enthusiasm towards the game of golf either professionally or for fun,” said Esmeralda H. Knowles, Site Director & Executive Director of Inner City Youth Golfers’, Inc. (ICYG). All of the participants enjoyed themselves and indicated that the first goal was accomplished.

This program is supported by the LPGA/USGA which has allowed ICYG to be a girls golf site; ICYG’s LETF Initiative: “Say No To Drugs – Say Yes To Education, Culture & Golf” (Sheriff Ric L. Bradshaw), The Links at Madison Green (host site); Signs By Tomorrow; our professional team; advisors; volunteers; other corporate sponsors and ICYG Youth Assistants: Ashley Alzate, Genesis Alzate and Nicholas Welter. We are now hopeful that the word will get out and several hundred girls will become members of “LPGA-USGA Girls Golf of Riviera Beach/Royal Palm Beach.” A schedule of activities for the remainder of 2008 will be posted on our web site within the next ten days.
